

Mercury Systems Receives $2.3M Microelectronics Order for Weapons Application

March 12, 2019

ANDOVER, Mass., March 12, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Mercury Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ: MRCY, www.mrcy.com), announced it received a $2.3 million order from a leading defense prime contractor for advanced GPS Selective Availability Anti-Spoofing Modules (SAASM) devices for a weapons application. The order was booked in the Company's fiscal 2019 second quarter and is expected to be shipped over the next several quarters.

The Company has successfully commercialized a comprehensive portfolio of microelectronics solutions optimized to address the harsh, SWaP-constrained operating environment typical of weapons applications. Spanning both the analog and digital domains, these solutions include:

- GPS filter amplifiers
- GPS SAASM devices
- GaN power amplifiers
- Radio frequency (RF) and microwave transceivers
- High density secure memory devices
- Solid state drive (SSD) devices
- Ultra-compact, small form factor secure processing solutions

"The employees of our Advanced Microelectronics Center in Phoenix, Ariz. are honored to deliver high-performance GPS SAASM devices for our nation's most important weapons programs," said Iain Mackie, Vice President and General Manager of Mercury's Microelectronics Secure Solutions group. "This order further underscores Mercury's leadership role in the design and manufacturing of highly ruggedized microelectronics critical to our national defense infrastructure."
